The information stored in the e-reserves database is protected under the Copyright Laws of the United States (Title 17 U.S. Code) governing the making of photostats of copyrighted material. While the provisions of "fair use" apply, the person using the system is liable for any infringement of copyright. Seton Hall University Libraries comply with copyright law (U.S. Copyright Act of 1976, Section 201). When copying material for course reserve, the University Libraries follow provisions of the "fair use" section (Section 107) and consider the factors laid out in that section. The purpose and character of the use, including whether such use is of a commercial nature or is for nonprofit educational purposes. The nature of the copyrighted work. The amount and substantiality of the portion used in relation to the copyrighted work as a whole. The effect of the use upon the potential market for or value of the copyright work.
